HELD A "FEET WASHING."

Novel Ceremony at the Dunkard Church in Oakland.

The Dunkard congregation in Oakland observed communion with the Lord's supper and ceremony of washing of feet Saturday night, commencing at 7 o'clock. Their little chapel near the Oakland postoffice was crowded with communicants and interested spectators.

The Dunkards in their scriptural translation are extremely literal, especially on passages relating to the supper in the upper room at Jerusalem on the night before the Savior was betrayed. As one of their speakers expressed it, "The Lord's supper was held at supper time and not in the morning. In order to properly commemorate it, therefore, we must do so at supper time. A Lord's supper in the forenoon is not a supper at all."

The communicants sat at two long tables in the front part of the church. The men sat at one table and the women at the other. They formed a striking group. The women wore little white hoods with Puritanic effect. The men were mostly advanced in years, although there were a few young ones among them. The Lord's supper was made more than a mere symbol to them, for bread, butter, cake, cold meat, beans and other articles of common food, with water were served.

Rev. Mr. Mohler of Warrensburg, Mo., conducted the service, and after a prayer by him, the ceremony of feet-washing was commenced. The chairs at the table were quietly drawn back a sufficient distance from the table to permit a person to pass in between. Then it was noted that each communicant wore a towel about his waist. Four bowls of water were produced, from which the "cold edge" had been removed, and the communicants leaned over and took off the shoes and stockings from each foot. It was with difficulty people in the congregation could see this ceremony. The man who sat nearest to a JOURNAL reporter, however, had corus on nearly every toe, and the general appearance of his foot was that it had played "this little pig went to market" with a type-setting machine. The man who sat next to him found the water colder than he liked and made a face. Underneath the table one could occasionally catch glimpses of feet that were pretty and dainty. Each communicant, when his feet had been washed, took the basin and performed the same menial service to the person next.

After this ceremony had been completed the service closed with a song in long meter without accompaniment.

DANIEL'S BAND.

A. Q. Wilson Now Contemplates a Temperance Organization.

A. Q. Wilson, the man who has had so much trouble in attempting to make temperance lectures on the street corners, has a new idea.

He says he is contemplating the organization of what he terms "A Daniel's Band." He says an organization by that name was made in Omaha which had for mayor and other city officers removed for non-enforcement of the law and closed up the saloons, and he thinks such an organization can be made effective in Topeka.

TOUCHED FOR $90.

A M-vetta Man Has His Pockets Picked by "Min" Saunders.

The notorious Minnie Saunders and her sister were placed under arrest Saturday on the charge of picking a man's pocket of $90. The victim of the theft was Joseph McCarthy of Mayetta, who had just arrived in town. He was walking across the street from the Rock Island depot, when "Min" Saunders stopped him and demanded, "hey duddy, how much money have you got for me to-night?"

"I have no money for you," replied Mr. McCarthy.

"Oh, yes, you have," persisted the colored woman. "I say I have not." With that the Saunders woman threw her arms on the victim's shoulder, and unknown to him began trying to locate his pocket-book. It is alleged that she found it in his rear trouser's pocket. McCarthy didn't notice it was gone until he had gone fully a block. He at once reported the affair to the police and said the purse contained sixteen $5 gold pieces and a $10 bill. From their descriptions "Min" Saunders and her sister were arrested. The money was not found on them, but McCarthy identifies the women. The women were afterwards arrested on a warrant from Justice Cheney's court where they will have a hearing next Thursday morning. They are out on $500 bond each.

WONDERFUL HINDOO

To Give Exhibitions in Clements & Chaffee's Window This Week.

An unusually novel exhibition will be given this week in Clements & Chaffee's north show window. This firm has engaged Mrs. Vernelo, the celebrated Hindoo magician, to give a series of ten performances, two each day, commencing Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Mrs. Vernelo has been performing the past week in St. Louis, and comes here direct from that city. She does many wonderful sleight of hand tricks, including the latest novelty, the "Hindoo handkerchief puzzle," about which all the east are talking. The performances will be given from 8:30 to 9:30 each afternoon and from 7 to 9 each evening.

Where She Had Gone for the Benefit of Her Health.

Mrs. George R. Peck, wife of the general solicitor of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad company, is quite ill at Geneva, Switzerland.

A Chicago dispatch announces that Receiver A. F. Walker of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad company appeared before the Federal grand jury Saturday and testified as to his knowledge of the alleged violations of the interstate-commerce law by officers of his road paying rebates to shippers.

Receiver Walker had been ordered to produce the books and tariffs of the company and any vouchers and receipts showing that rebates had been paid. He complied with the subpoenas duces tecum by producing everything except the articles most desired by the investigators—namely, the vouchers and receipts. Mr. Walker said the records of the company had been searched carefully, but the vouchers could not be found, nor could any other evidence be discovered from the accounts showing the payment of rebates. Mr. Walker was excused until today, when he is expected to produce books which were not included in this subpoena.

REGISTRATION 6,000.

Two Weeks More in Which to Register for the State Election.

Less than two weeks now remain in which to register for the November state election. The registration books close on the 28th inst., which is ten days before election, and after that date no one can have his name recorded with the elect of the city.

The voters are now registering rapidly and between seventy-five and a hundred names are recorded every day by the commissioner. The books show a registration of 6,212, while the total registration in the city has always been above 7,000.

A great many are refused registration because of their ineligibility. The commissioner says that the greater number of these are young men almost 21 years old. They have heard the old-time political speaker tell how "I commenced to vote the ticket when I was 18 years old and have voted it ever since," and when they attempt to follow his example they find serious obstacles in their way. These young would-be voters belong to all political parties.

REAL ESTATE PROSPECTS.

As Viewed by J. S. Collins—Farms Must Sell First.

J. S. Collins said today in speaking of the condition of real estate: "I find a great inquiry for farms principally from Ohio and Pennsylvania and if Kansas had raised good crops this year there would have been a very large immigration this winter but in spite of bad crops a great many people will come to Kansas this fall and winter."

"The greatest drawback of a country is a lack of confidence among the people at home. A man hears people talk of hard times until he thinks he is hard up but just as soon as a people commence to brighten up the feeling is entirely changed and that is just what is happening now."

"Farms will have to sell before real estate in the city commences to move much. The trouble with Topeka now is that the city got ahead of the country and this must be reversed before the situation is greatly improved."

LOCAL MENTION.

Jacob Shaffer, the champion billiardist, by reason of his success in the recent triangular tournament, has been engaged to give an exhibition in Topeka the latter part of this month.

BREIDENTHAL'S REPORT.

It is Out and Asks for the Law of 1893.

The biennial report of the state bank commissioner is out. In this report Bank Commissioner Breidenthal recommends that the law of 1893 be again passed for his department, permitting the employment of two deputies, one clerk and a stenographer, and further, that the fee for examination of banks be increased, as the present provision of the law upon the fee question has proved inadequate for the maintenance of the department.

He is of the opinion that when a receiver is appointed for a bank, and a notice posted that it is closed, that this should place the bank in the hands of a receiver and protect it from any legal process, and that the United States court should be prevented from appointing receivers for banks until it is shown that the bank commissioner has neglected and refused to perform his duty.

Mr. Breidenthal says the expenses of a receivership are simply outrageous and that take very much of the nature of highway robbery—legalized of course.

TOPEKA MINSTREL BAND.

It Has Organized, With George Lescher as President.

Topeka has a new minstrel organization. It is purely local, and will not wander away from the narrow precincts of the city. The organization is called the Kindergarten minstrel society, and George M. Lescher is president, and Col. J. W. F. Hughes responds to the honorable title of press agent. The cast will include the bon ton element of Topeka society, and those who will shine resplendent in burnt cork and thick lips, and answer to the names of "Bill, Bob" and other euphonious titles, are now the frequenters of swell social gatherings.

Of course the members of the company do not expect to profit by the enterprise, except the pleasure they will find in worrying their friends in attempts to secure "original" jokes. The proceeds will be turned over to a charitable organization.

The costumes have been sent for, and rehearsals will soon begin, but the show will not be given until in the early part of December.

IN POLICE COURT.

People Who Couldn't Live in Peace With the World.

Mr. B. A. Doolittle is a very nice man, and his friends were very much surprised when he allowed the seductive "white horse" to carry him away Thursday. The police eventually got him, and he confessed his guilt in police court this morning and was fined five dollars.

Buck Sawyer is a nice looking young colored man, and it is said in one of the houses of Miss Annie Dupree. Annie, however, has some ideas of the sort of young man she wants, and Buck falls short of them. She told him that old story that the boys have heard, about being a sister to him, and Buck revenged his entire sex by smashing Annie in the eye. Annie has had Buck arrested, and his case came up in police court this morning, but was continued till tomorrow, to allow Annie to gather some more witnesses.

Will Arnold has a shotgun of which he is very fond. Yesterday he was taking it home and tried it to see if it was loaded. It was and the police arrested him for shooting a gun inside the city limits. William confessed his guilt in police court this morning and was fined $5, which he paid.

Will and Frank Graham are two young men from the country who enjoy a good time occasionally. They were in town Saturday and went out to find a jag. It was found after a great deal of difficulty and the boys lifted it to see how heavy it was. It was heavy and finally the pulley was compelled to help the boys carry it. The case came up in police court this morning, but the boys were not present and the case will be tried tomorrow.

Asa Bright had $6 and a jag when he was picked up by the police yesterday. The jag had been making a lot of holes that disturbed the peace and quiet of the Sabbath day, and when the police took it to the station Asa went along. Asa thought the $6 was more money than he cared for so he put it up for his appearance this morning, and forfeited it by not getting around.

Charley Peterson is a young white man, and when his innocent face appeared in the dingy police court this morning there was surprise. All else had been black before the judge. Charley admitted his guilt and the judge assuaged him $3.

SALES OF BEER DOUBLED.

Brewers' Journal Statistics Show Great Increase in Kansas.

The Brewers' Journal for October gives some interesting statistics in regard to the quantity of beer sold in the United States during the last eight years.

These statistics show that there has, during the last year, been a very great decrease in the sales of beer in the United States as a whole, but that in several states, including Kansas, the sales of beer have been very greatly increased.

According to these figures from the Brewers' Journal, in Kansas under the first year of Governor Humphrey's administration, beer to the amount of 2,700 barrels was sold in Kansas. The next year the sales amounted to 2,050 barrels, and in the next year 1892, but 1,644 barrels of beer were sold.

Since Governor Lewelling has been at the head of affairs of state there has been a great increase in the sales of beer as these statistics show. The first year of his administration, there were 2,677 barrels of beer sold and this has been increased to such an extent that for the year ending June 30, 1894, the sales of beer amounted to 5,810 barrels.
